

~~Department~~
Department of Genetics
University of Wisconsin
Madison 6, Wisconsin
U.S.A.

May 3, 1957

Dr. K. V. Kossikov:
Institute of Genetics
Academy of Sciences
Moscow, U.S.S.R.

Dear Dr. Kossikov:

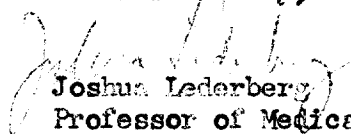

Greetings.

In a separate package, I am mailing to you reprints of a number of my works in which you may be interested. I will endeavor to transmit any reasonable number of the strains mentioned in these papers, if you will specify those that would be of scientific interest ~~to~~ to you.

I am looking forward to an exchange of publications that may help a mutual understanding in our field of common interest, in the genetics of microorganisms. I am especially looking forward to receiving a copy of your/ monograph on yeast genetics, of which you were kind enough to promise me one.

I am also hopeful that we may soon have an occasion again to meet with one another, as well as with other of our colleagues in genetics, both in the U.S. and the U.S.S.R.

Yours sincerely,

Joshua Lederberg
Professor of Medical Genetics

(Member, National Academy of Sciences of the U.S.)